"Leading @ the Speed of Tomorrow!"

City governments, like all organizations, strive for stability, effectiveness, and the capability to meet ever-increasing demands. Challenges that were on the horizon just this morning are on top of us before lunch. It's not that things are changing; it's that things are changing faster and faster. How do we prepare for the unknown, the unexpected? What will the consequences be for leaders who are unable to nimbly navigate the flood of challenges rushing at them like whitewater rapids? Today's leaders must be able to multi-task, but the more difficult part of any job is dealing with people.

Unwelcome interruptions, disengaged employees, last minute demands, citizen customers with urgent needs or unrealistic expectations are all part and parcel of "just another day at the office." "Leading @ the Speed of Tomorrow!" will provide attendees with a fresh perspective on the differing principles which govern task management and human communication. They will be able to apply a simple set of rules to expand their own power of influence and also help mitigate the most daunting facet of any job...managing tasks while leading people, and all in the midst of the many pressures that accompany the accelerating pace of change.

Participants will learn how to:

- Help Themselves and Others Keep up with the Accelerating Pace of Change
- Collect the Dividends of Social Capital by Cultivating Emotional Intelligence
- Lead Effectively by Focusing on All Four Critical Organizational Dimensions
- Find Out what Really Motivates Others to Go Over and Above
- Expand Influence by Developing and Communicating Their Own Unique Leadership Message
